Doctoral Landscape Award (DLA) project

Dr Antonio del Rio Chanona

October 2027 start

Large language models for automated discovery and decision making

Development of AI agents that can autonomously generate hypotheses, design experiments, interpret results and revise their scientific understanding. This project will explore how large language models can be combined with optimisation, machine learning and scientific reasoning to accelerate discovery across complex scientific and engineering problems.