Q. Are there any costs associated with the summer school?

A. No, all Outreach programmes are free to attend. You will need to arrange your own travel, but if this is a barrier to you attending please contact us to discuss.

Q. If I don’t get a place, can I pay and still come?

A. No, we have a limited number of spaces and these are given according to our eligibility criteria.

Q. Where will I sleep during the summer school?

A. Students sleep in an en-suite single or twin room in single or mixed sex blocks. If you are offered a place or a waiting list place you will be able to select a preference of which block you would like to be in.

Q. Do I have to stay in the accommodation provided?

A. Yes, living in halls of residence is an important experience that will give you a better idea of what university life could be like.

Q. If I get accepted alongside a friend, can we request to share a room?

A. No, one of the aims of our programmes is to develop your communication skills and as such we don’t place people who know each other in the same room.

Q. Can I attend part of the summer school if I am unavailable for some of it e.g. I am on a holiday?

A. No, our programmes are designed to build on your knowledge over the course of the week with a presentation of your work at the end, so it is very important that you take part in all of the sessions.
